Happy New Year and Welcome Back!

We hope you had a relaxing and refreshing holiday break, but now it's time to get back to the grind!

Paying for college is a weight many students and parents must face. In addition to FAFSA and Pell Grants, other scholarships and grants can play an essential role in paying for college. After all, it is free money and who couldn't use some of that?

Finding a scholarship that fits you and your needs can be a daunting task. With numerous websites and several different scholarships to choose from, the process of identifying the ones that are legitimate and a good match for you can be overwhelming. BUT we are here to help! Below are some resources to get you started:

We have also highlighted a couple websites that are specifically for students of Native American, Native Hawaiian, and Alaska Native descent. We encourage all Native American students to contact their Tribe of enrollment and ask about the scholarships they offer as well, which many do!

For more information, you can check out the NASNTI Scholarship Board in the Boren Library, visit with the ladies in the Financial Aid office located in the Walkingstick building, and follow the Native American-Serving Nontribal Institutions of SSC Facebook page for scholarship deadlines and upcoming NASNTI events!

We wish you a great semester!

The Access Lab and Native Language Resource Area

The Access Lab located in the Boren Library, RM 125, is available for ALL SSC students to use! It provides flexible access to computers equipped with assistive devices and software for students with disabilities and free printing too! Here you can also learn about the assistive learning devices available to check-out this semester.

Need to print in color? The Native Language Resource Area located in the Boren Library, RM 123, also has computers and a color printer available for ALL SSC students to use! While visiting, take a look at our book shelves fully stocked with literature surrounding Native American culture, language, and history! Please Note: due to program regulations, books and CD's from this area cannot be checked-out; however, there is space to read, study, research, and photo copy!

For more information, please contact k.wallace@sscok.edu or a.ryan@sscok.edu.
